WHY MEN SMOKE.-No habit adopted by a whole race of man, indeed by all races of men, but must have a raison d'etre. The dhudeen of the Irshman, the chibouk of the Asiastic, the calumet of the Indian, the cigar of the white American, would not exist simultaneous ly on every part of the globe, if in the use of tobacco there did not slumber some spell of great potency over men. The lazy man it seems to make lazier; the nervous man, it makes more nervous; the brain worker it inspires, and on the artist it bestows visions of beauty. All lecturing against it has proved vain. The habit spreads with population over Australia and Polynesia, and in a couple of centuries from new smoking will be as universal as eating.

It is related that a New Hampshire minister recently portrayed the history of Jonah after the following style: "I seem to see Jonah passing along the road to Nineveh; I seem to see him entering the ticket-office, buy his ticket and pay for it; I seem to see him walk upon the vessel, I seem to see them lift their anchor and the stately ship moves gradually upon the broad Atlantic."

It is said that a new reservoir now being constructed to supply Paris with water, will be covered with an artificial garden, with sufficient depth of soil to allow plants being cultivated on it. The idea is to protect the water from the sun's rays in summer and from frost in
